Interim Headteacher: Mr. O Cooper

Dear Families and Friends,

Our home learning is going strong! That is in no doubt thanks to you as parents/carers supporting children at home with their learning. It is greatly appreciated in school the effort you are all putting in and the benefits will become more and more evident, especially in the following ways:

Firstly, you, as parents/carers, have seen first hand the types of work and schemes your child works on in school, as well as the things they find easy and the areas where they developing. This will mean that once we return to school you will be in an even better position to support your child's learning.

Secondly, students will return to school with learning fresh in their minds, so they are ready to hit the ground running when they are back with their teachers. Obviously, home learning is not the same as learning at school with teachers, but I greatly appreciate the efforts you have all put in at home amongst trying to juggle work/life commitments in these uncertain times.

I have enjoyed seeing some new and different faces this week, both in school and as part of our home learning. We have had different key worker children join us in school this week, working hard on their learning packs, and we have also had siblings of children who attend other schools taking part in our learning – It's fantastic to see such great attitudes to learning!

Next week, I am looking forward to seeing even more new and returning faces in school, albeit in strange circumstances where we maintain our social distancing and safety protocols and have (sometimes) only 2 pupils in school! Next week, we will also be welcoming Mr Davies, the headteacher from Snainton Primary School, as we are currently hosting students from his school.

We will continue to operate a skeleton staff during the lockdown, however long that may last. However, please remember that next Friday is a Bank Holiday, to coincide with VE Day. We can offer childcare on this day, but only as a last resort and with plenty of forewarning, so please get in touch if this is required.

Finally, please, once again, enjoy the photos of some of the highlights from this week's learning!

Thanks again for a great week and enjoy your weekend,

Mr Cooper (Interim Headteacher)
